AN INTERVIEW WITH THE SCHOOL DIRECTOR

MAJ GEN SANJIV VARMA (RETD.) SPEAKS ON THE HARD TIMES WE ARE LIVING IN, THE EFFECT OF COVID PANDEMIC ON EDUCATION AND PRESENT AND FUTURE SCHOOL POLICIES IN THIS CANDID INTERVIEW.

Q. What were your initial feelings at the beginning of the lockdown ?

The initial feeling as the crisis commenced in March was that the situation was not going to last long , that the pandemic will be over and the normal classes resume soon . But in April the reality dawned that the situation was more grave and more grim than we had envisaged it to be . We took immediate action and suitable modifications were effected in the time table , especially in terms of the curriculum, course content, duration and frequency of the classes.

The online classes was , it goes without saying , a new concept for most of us - the teachers as well as for some students.. But then, it is highly satisfying that after a few initial setbacks and teething troubles , we were able to adapt ourselves to this new way of teaching and learning and settle down well in the new scenario.

The experience, despite the few obstacles and challenges, has been a fruitful one .

Q. How did the online curriculum evolve as the pandemic stretched ?

A. Initially , it was an emergency remote schooling with all hits and trials. As stated the preliminary thought was that the online classes was a stopgap arrangement and that the situation will be back to normal soon . But as the time passed and the lockdown period stretched , the need to introduce revisions in our curriculum was acutely felt.

So, in the month of July, 2020, at the commencement of the second term ,classes on life skills, co- curricular and extra- curricular activities and counselling were added to the time table. Inter -class and inter-house competitions were introduced .

The number of periods which till then varied between 3 to 4 were increased to 4-5 for the Senior and the Junior school, respectively.

In this new academic session we have been conducting 6-7 periods per day .

During this period, the teachers have ,no doubt , stretched themselves beyond the course lecture format and included live demonstrations, A/V modes and experiments in their scholastics.

All this has helped us cope with the completion of the syllabi and check the extensive loss of time and work , which would have otherwise inevitably occurred.

The co- curricular and extra -curricular activities also gave the students an opportunity to break away from the monotony of staying at home and indulge in some constructive exercises At the same time , we have continued to participate in virtual inter-school competitions hosted by different schools at home and abroad -

One may add here that though the decision was difficult , we even went to the extent of re-inducting non- contact games such as tennis, badminton , athletics ,yoga and horse riding to our daily routine during the same time . Though the response , as expected , was not overwhelming , yet some regular sportspersons of the school availed the opportunity and attended these evening sessions .

Now, to add, we are moving towards more technology –based blended learning – part online and part face-to-face.

Q. How challenging do you feel it was, heading an educational institution under such circumstances ?

A. The world, we will all agree, faced an unprecedented situation in the form of the pandemic. So, surely, it was a different and unique experience for all of us, and more so to head an educational institution as big as YPS. The expectations reposed in us by the parents and the students were high and had to be, somehow, met. With the right approach, a measured strategy and, most importantly, the concerted efforts of all- the staff, the students and the parents, we were able to achieve our goals, if not completely, then to a very large extent. I am indeed thankful to all for their support.

The honourable Board of Governors provided us with their invaluable guidance and motivation, which was pressingly the need of the hour.

Though, one cannot deny that the eagerness and keenness among the students for the school to reopen could be felt all this time. No other set up, we believe, can match the joy, vivacity and liveliness of a regularly functioning school.

Q. ‘ Every dark cloud has a silver lining ‘. What benefits, if any, do you think the students have accrued through these classes ?

A. Well, this is a difficult question to answer. Though, it is difficult to find something bright out of a situation as dull and depressing as this, but then, as you rightly said, ‘Every dark cloud has a silver lining’.

We have to agree that we are moving towards student- centric learning. With the surprising rise of social media as one of the primary means of imparting education, I realised that the students are more familiar with the online version of classes. This shift to online learning has somewhere allowed the students to self-study and preview online material. They can better prepare and interact with their teachers and peers now. Since all students develop at their respective pace, online learning is proving to be compatible as per the child’s prerequisite.

On the other side, this pandemic has made us wiser, more mature, compassionate and sensitive human beings also. We have learnt to empathise more with our fellow beings and tend to their needs and grievances more willingly and readily. A first hand proof of this is the YPS family too making its contribution and extending a helping hand to the poor and needy in these times—right from the school management to the staff and the students.

Q. Which avenues/fields were left untouched despite the best intentions ?

A. Online classes have proved to be an alternative to physical classes during the pandemic. The school has tried to employ all efforts into making online learning a new normal for the students, but there were certain aspects which became a little difficult for us to accomplish. The students were totally barred from experimental learning, because of them not being physically present on the campus and teachers had to explain all the scientific concepts in a theoretical form. The cancellation of extra-curricular activities, students missing on peer association, increasing dull habits and drop in creative energy have been some other unfavourable fallouts.

Sports was another casualty which could not be carried out as purposed. But then, we have to reconcile with the fact that these are factors which were beyond our control and had to be borne. Online learning suffers from inherent drawbacks which prevent it from becoming a perfect substitute for school learning. Though we try to check these, they do pose some problems in our way.

Q. How are we going to brace ourselves for such unforeseen circumstances in the future ?

A. First of all, we hope and pray that such situations do not arise in the future. But then, though we hope for the best, we should stay prepared for the worst. The second wave of corona in the country has caught us off guard and resulted in an extensive loss of life. The reason is that we failed to anticipate the crisis striking us a second time and lacked the preparedness and readiness to deal with the situation effectively. So, we have to be more prepared, ready and equipped for such eventualities in the future.

I think, the catastrophe has, certainly, taught us not to take life too much for granted and not to meddle with the sanctity of the nature. We ought to be thankful for the blessings nature has bestowed upon us and make the best of what life has given to us.

THE 'UNIQUE' YADAVINDRIAN !

No regular photo ops, no Sports Day section and no classroom activities' reports, the Year Book is certainly different this time ....

Our School's official Yearbook, 'The Yadavindrian', is not just any book. It's a world of its own that sums up an entire year's festivities, nostalgia, highlights, craziness and memories, all in itself. I have been collecting 'The Yadavindrian' since 2012. From the very first moment that I opened the book, to the first time I saw my name in print and from the time I saw the book adorned with my paintings to the times I noticed our class photographs change in front of my eyes, 'The Yadavindrian' never ceases to engulf me with memories that I get to revisit all because of it.

When I imagined what the 2020-21 Yearbook would look like, nothing would flash before my eyes, for 2020 was literally a blank year. I'm sure we all missed the 2019 BC(Before Corona) times more than once! Everything was going well for us and the Yearbook, that is until a miniscule virus decided to cause a much dreaded hindrance. An entire school year was compromised, including the cancelation of many extra-curricular activities like debates and quizzes and sports events like cross-country and Athletics Meet, so much so, that the School had to resort to online examinations, which we have to admit was shocking ,yet favorable for most of us!

'The Yadavindrian' had never been through challenging times as such, but we persevered and so did the Yearbook. 2020-21, being such a twisted phase, 'The Yadavindrian' too has rolled with the punches and taken a twist. No sports photographs or Sports Day sections, no regular group photographs, no candid (somewhat amusing) photos, and not to mention the lack of variety and content. This year, the Yearbook may not have all the necessary facts and photo coverage, but it surely has one thing that no force of the universe can ever snatch from it. That thing is none other than the bittersweet memories associated with the book that we lose ourselves in and are far more potent than anything else. Some would call this year's Yearbook a 'bummer'(!) , but if we look from an optimistic and wholesome perspective, we would proudly call 'The Yadavindrian 2020-21', unique!

ACADEMIC DAY (VIRTUAL) CELEBRATIONS

The School celebrated its 71st Annual Academic Day (virtual) on Saturday, June 5. The ceremony was held in the new auditorium of the School.

It was encouraging to note that despite the pandemic still riding high and disrupting normal routine, nothing could stop Yadavindra Public School from celebrating its students' success in the fields of academics and co-curricular activities.

The senior authorities and a small group of senior staff members of the School occupied the seats in the newly inaugurated building, whilst the students were present in little boxes on the huge screen. With a large number of students in the zoom meeting and many more watching them live through the medium of Facebook, the 71st Annual Academic Day reflected its usual grandeur.

The programme began with a short, but informative, address by the School Director, Maj Gen Sanjiv Varma. The Director reminiscing the restrictions imposed by the current circumstances , recapitulated the measures implemented by the School in the last one year, spoke briefly on the future course of action and congratulated the prize winners.

This was followed by the prize distribution ceremony. Since the prize winners were physically not present , in coordination to the announcement of the names of the prize winners, the pictures of the brilliant students graced the screen. It was, indeed, a proud moment for all !

The function rounded off with the Deputy Head Master, Mr. Anil Bajaj, proposing the Vote of Thanks.

COUNSELLING IN TIMES OF COVID .....

Counselling: a term that essentially means to empower individuals to attain and accomplish their mental wellness and various goals, was certainly one of the highlights of the pandemic lockdown and online schooling. History is going to remember the year 2020 for all the reasons best known to all of us but, most of all it will be remembered for making us all acknowledge the importance of physical and mental well-being. Yadavindra Public School, Patiala, geared up well in time to brace and deal with the transition from offline to online teaching-learning.

The transition from traditional classrooms to online e-classrooms wasn't easy ,but most certainly handled sensitively and sensibly by Team YPS.The shift was equally challenging for both teachers and students alike, but today, almost a year plus since its commencement, we are a stronger team together.

The school counselling sessions were conducted via regular time-table scheduled classes for the Middle and Senior Wing classes( and these included one-to one- sessions also ) The main focus of these sessions was on the formation of a sense of balance and equanimity in students in such trying times.

COVID lockdown with its restrictions on social gatherings and normal ways of life, has deeply affected the minds and morale of people world over. Considering the deep impact such drastic shifts have on young minds- the sessions were kept extremely interactive and candid. Experiences and impressions being shared among peers, compounded with the ideas and suggestions given in by the counsellor, truly assisted the students face the calamity with grace and gratitude.

Popular exercises and activities like 'Speak Your Mind' and 'Gratitude-Diaries' were a standard part of these sessions with the objective being an instant 'feel-good' in one and all. Speaking of the challenges being faced by students from issues like screen-addiction to weight-management, from the problem of lack of socialisation to inability to concentrate in studies, all were addressed duly and acknowledged. The classes received a warm reception from all the students, while many expressed a desire to make them an everyday class.

Regular teacher and parent interactions with the counsellor along with individual attention to students in need also helped promoting a sense of wellness.

Towards the latter part of the year, counselling sessions were also conducted via the bulletin classes, which added an element of surprise in the daily class schedule of students.

The USP of these sessions was the non-judgmental approach of the counsellor who was just there to listen to the young teens venting out the highs and lows experienced by them. An informal setting eased the students and allowed them to relax.

Timely interventions and practical suggestions have better chances of success when picked up by a calm mind !

While the pandemic is still on and our hopes and prayers for things to normalise fruitify, the counselling sessions will be a regular part of the students time-table ,ensuring a mentally and holistically healthy child ready to face all obstacles.

Overall ,the warmth and joy of just sharing, listening and learning from peers is simply the best therapy in the world...Wouldn't you all agree?

ONE YEAR OF ONLINE CLASSES A TEACHER'S PERSPECTIVE

- Mrs. Madhu Gupta, Faculty Member (Junior School)

A never thought, never imagined and never experienced moment—emergence of COVID -19 pandemic --hit one and all last year, but what it taught us is to never lose the hope of living and surviving !

Amid confusions and speculations over children's future, the circle of life seemed to be coming to an end for both parents and teachers. However, as the saying goes- 'Right decisions on right time make better deals'- which proved to be survival mantra for all of us.

The right decision of using digital mode to connect with students, under needy circumstances, helped us to change the direction of the sinking hopes. While it was a new experience for the teachers, the students also started to take full advantage of it to connect with teachers and continue their learning. The hurdle to handle the digital mode of teaching was crossed with the help of our management, colleagues and guides. It emerged as a new hope of surviving amidst the pandemic. The teaching fraternity at Yadavindra Public School, Patiala, is working tirelessly to create an appealing learning environment to make students excel in various fields. The learning extends to nurturing children's interest in many extracurricular activities. At the end of the day, the most overwhelming key to a child's success is the positive involvement of parents in making the endeavour successful and interactive. Each and every faculty member has risen above and beyond to help students to sail through each difficulty with ease.

A crisis always requires out-of-the-box solutions and teachers can take advantage of creative ways to keep students connected, engaged and emotionally healthy. Meanwhile, the continuous process of releasing knowledge and assessing the students was a learning path for us.

However, on the other hand, if we think about normal days ahead, I am sure students shall be eager to come to school to learn and share their experience with each other. While online learning taught us that aims can be achieved through sole determination, physical classes taught us a way to live in a disciplined society by interacting with various kinds of people on a daily basis. The guidance is a must for an overall development of the child, and so is the flow of information. Be it online or offline, teaching is a never dying process of one's life !

A TEACHER'S TAKE ON ONLINE CLASSES

-Mrs. Deepa Thapliyal, Faculty Member (Senior School)

With the normal routine in progress, a news came that the School will remain closed for an indefinite period of time.... reason...COVID 19, a virus that wrecked havoc across the globe- and every facet of life was affected! A catastrophe which brought everything to a standstill. There seemed no respite of any form.

I, as a teacher, felt helpless. Education of children was being compromised. All permutations and combinations were being tried by school authorities to revive teaching. Finally, the option that emerged as a solution was Online teaching through Zoom platform.

Going online seemed impossible and gave me shivers as to how I would cope with this new system. The challenge was accepted, a series of practices were organised by the school....getting ourselves acquainted with the technology.... downloading the apps, making PPTs, sharing material, making notes and digitalising them, making videos, etc. An exercise which was really exhausting and frustrating in the beginning, but finally bore fruit.

Finally, the day came when I was to conduct the class online for the first time. The excitement to see the children (virtually though) grew manifold. I still remember the first sound coming from across my laptop saying 'Good Morning .. maam'... a moment which was sufficient enough to regale me. All my fears vanished and I was filled with a sense of achievement. The journey was not a smooth sail. It had all its ups and downs... network issues, non-serious approach of the students, pranks being played by children, credibility of assessments being carried out, our inability to manage technological issues, to name a few.

Somehow, these discrepancies were managed by us. In this situation where every other facet had been brought down to its knees, be it business, jobs etc.. online teaching came as a saviour for the education sector. The students have also gained from this online system . We have been able to engage our students fruitfully.. not only in academics but in co-curricular activities too. New skills were developed both by students and teachers. No one knows, when this pandemic will get over, but one thing is for sure, things will not be the same as before. This journey of our online teaching, which we need to keep upgrading, will definitely become an essential tool for our future teaching methodologies. We have somehow equipped ourselves for future challenges .

After the passage of a year, when I look back now, I don't believe that I have vanquished my fear and now here I am, successfully downloading files, passing on digital material to the students, solving the problems of children, taking assessments ,and mind you ... all online.

MY ONLINE CLASSES EXPERIENCE

-Divnoor Samra, XII Arts

Never in the wildest of my dreams had I imagined that schools would shut for what seems like an eternity and I would be attending classes from the comfort of my room !

The lockdown was imposed during my class X boards and now I have reached Grade XII in the same format of online classes. This wasn't how all of us had envisioned our last year at school to be! We were looking forward to fun and frolic times, creating truckloads of memories but all we have now is regret for having taken the assembly, the corridors, the stadium, the school mess for granted . How badly do we all miss the random strolls through the corridors, the tea-break snacks and the school environment- it is beyond words...!

The idea of online classes came with an odd feeling of excitement, mixed with uncertainty. Since we were new to the zoom platform, it took us a little time to become comfortable with it. Many of us faced a lot of technical glitches in the beginning which , in a way, got annoying at times, but then it was what it was. And before we knew , online classes grew to be a habit and became a part of our routine. Now, it feels as we have been attending online school since forever. The teachers have been trying their best to get us accustomed to the concept of online learning. Detailed presentations and extra notes have made the online study simpler, easier and more efficient. There were only 4-5 classes a day which resulted in less pressure on us-the students. On a lighter note, some students were excited that the teachers could no longer give them punishments in the old, traditional ways. But , it is ironical as soon enough they began to miss the same very 'punishments' The only drawback I felt was the lack of connection between the students and the teachers. Though with time, this has become better.

The negative thoughts flowing around in bunches usually tend to make you feel sad, disappointed, tensed and take a toll on your mental health. A time came when I felt disappointed as I wasn't doing anything productive and had lots of trouble working on my time management. Most of us lost momentum and our long-developed routines in the lockdown period did affect our studies to a great extent .

To conclude, let me remind you of the idea of Survival of the Fittest. With the changing times, we need to change our ways of living to survive. Otherwise, we can fail in life. Similarly, the need of the hour is online education and no matter what, but we need to adapt to the system. The pandemic is one of life's curveballs. This too shall pass....

For now, stay safe and stay indoors. Adapt and adjust.

Double Mask Up. Stay in. Stay Safe.!
